DEATH OF MORRIS ANDERSON. The Fatal Accident Happened in Goochland County-Action Taken Upon the

Death of Major H. B. Tallaferro,

The sad news was received in this city last evening of the death of Morris Anderson at his father's farm, in Goochland county. He was accidentally killed while hunting, but up to a late hour last night no particulars of the occurrence had been received.

The victim of the sad accident was bright boy, about eighteen years of age, a son of Mr. Joseph R. Anderson, Jr., and grandson of the late General Joseph R. Anderson. His remains will be brought to Richmond to-day for interment. Late information has it that he was in the act of taking his gun from a wagon, when the weapon exploded.

MAJOR TALIAFERRO'S FUNERAL. MAJOR TALIAFERRO'S FUNERAL.

Major Hay B. Taliferro, who died at his residence at No. 5 north Sixth street, rather suddenly on Monday evening, was a native of Orange county, and had been in business in this city before the war. During the latter period he was major and commissary in Pickett's division. In 1865 he again established himself in business in this city. He was fifty-eight years of age, and one of the most years of age, and one of the most esteemed and respected men in the city. He leaves two sons, P. B. and W. M.

Taliferro.

A general meeting of the Richmond Grain and Cotton Exchange was held in the rooms of the Exchange yesterday at 12 M., the president, Mr. N. R. Savage, in the chair, Captain B. A. Jacob, secre-

The president in feeling and appro priate remarks announced to the "The Trade" the death of ex-President Major H. B. Taliaferro, and stated that the meeting had been called for the purpose of taking such action as the members of taking such action as the members might see proper and necessary. Mr. C. L. Todd moved that the president ap-point a committee of three members to draft suitable resolutions, which motion was carried, and the president appointed the following named gentlemen to constitute the committee: Messrs C. L. Todd, C. H. Simpson and A. R Venable, Jr. After consultation the committee re-Whereas, death has again invaded our Association, and has stricken down with-out warning in the midst of his useful-ness our cherished and respected brother member, Major H. B. Taliferro, who died suddenly at his residence in this city at 10:30 o'clock on the night of Monday, October 17th.

Therefore be it resolved, That in the death of Major Taliferro this Exchange has lost one of its oldest and most valued members, a former president and a member of its directory and executive com-mittee for many years. He filled every position of trust which devolved upon him with conspicious faithfulness, fidelity and ability, and always manifested the most earnest interest in all its affairs. He was distinguished by traits of unflagging energy, of great kindness of nature, and unswerving integrity, and occupied a position of merited prominence in this business community.

Resolved, That a committee of the Grain and Cotton Exchange attend his funeral and pay the last sad tribute to his memory.

Resolved further, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and the same be spread upon the records of the Exchange and furnished the daily papers for publication.

ACTION OF THE BANK.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the Citizens' Bank, held yesterday afternoon, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted: Whereas under the dispensation of God our directory has been startled by the sad and sudden death of Major H. B. Tallaferro, who has been so long associa-ted with us in our labors and responsibilities; therefore, be it Resolved, That in the death of Major

Taliaferro the Citizens' Bank has lost the services of one of its oldest and most zealous officers and friends. By his active energies and intelligent apprecia-tion of and knowledge of the business interests of this city his counsels were always wise and conservative and promotive of the best welfare of the bank. His prominence as a merchant attested the esteem in which he was held by this community.

Resolved, That as a tribute to his memory a committee from this directory at-Resolved, further, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our record book, and a copy be furnished his family and to the daily papers for publication. John Addison, J. H. Capers,

The Trade will attend the funeral.

JOHN W. STRANG.

Mr. John W. Strang died suddenly yes terday morning at 5:30 o'clock at the residence of his father, Mr. George W. Strang, No. 2605 east Grace street. Deceased had been alling for about fourteen months, and was taken sick soon after the death of his brother William in 1891. He was at one time salesman for Mr. M. Zander, but had to give up his place on account of his failing health, and had to go to New Mexico and Colorado. About two months ago he returned, apparently in better health. For the past few days was not feeling well, but was not considered to be in a criticel condition. Yesterdoy morning he had a violent hemor-rhage, and expired a short time after-

J. L. PAGE. A telegram from Charlottesville an-nounced the death of Mr. J. L. Page, which happened there yesterday. The deceased was better known as Len. Page, deccased was better known as Len. Page, and resided in Richmond while his father, the late J. M. Page, conducted the St. James Hotel. At the time of his death he was cashier of the bank at Clifton Forge and also engaged in other business enterprises. He had been ill for months, and was only twenty-eight years old.

Mr. James V. Ramos, of this city, married a sister of Mr. Page, and for some weeks past that lady has been constantly at his bedside. The remains will reach here this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

The chess tournament conducted under direction of the Virginia Chess Association creates unusual interest among the players of this city and State. On yesterday the rooms of the Richmond Chess Club were filled with interested spectators, and the now interested contestants for the State championship. It has been a long time since so much interest has been shown in such a contest in this State. Among the players are the best known and most skillful in Virginia. In the games played thus far merit of high order has been displayed. A game played last night between Mr. John A. Smith, of Danville, and Mr. Otto Meyer, of this city, was specially interesting. Scarcely less interest was shown by the spectators in a game played between Messrs. London and Moorman. Under the rules governing the tournament each player will have to contest two games with every other player, and though there are only eight contestants, fiftythere are only eight contestants, fifty-six games must be played before the score will be complete. Much progress was made on the first day's play, but the contest will necessarily be continued for several days.

General Peyton Wise is manager and umpire of the tournament. The entries and score are as follows: The entries and score are as follows: London, won 1, lost 1; Blankenship, won 1, lost 2; Meyer, won 1; Moorman, won 5; Smith, won 2; lost 3; Ross, lost 6; Latham, won 2; lost 4; Pendleton won 4, Dixon on Fools.

The largest lecture audience ever assembled in Richmond listened in rapt attention to Rev. Thomas Dixon for an hour and a half at the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening.

The fire of genius poured from his lips and seemed to filter from his fingers' ends as he fitted striking gestures to ornate word pictures, were drunk in with willing ears, and his audience sat for nearly a full minute after he closed with a pyroa full minute after he closed with a pyro-technic peroration of oratory, as if loath to give him up.

His subject was "Fools," treated as object lessons for those who are wise enough to profit by their blunders. The foibles of human nature were never held to a mora glaring light or more fully perforated with ridicule, wit and humor.

The people of Richmond have waked up to the fact that there are some lectures worth their attention, and should Rev. Thomas Dixon come again he would have a still larger hearing.

Fractured Her Hip.

Miss Annie Cox yesterday sustained a fracture of the hip by falling over the embankment made by the excavation of the atreet in rear of the Exposition Grounds. She was returning from the Exposition and slipped and fell at a point where the bank was ten feet high. The young lady is well known and lives with her mother at 409 porth Second street.

JUSTICE JOHN'S COURT.

The Military was Out in Full Force, but All is Now Quiet. Justice John looked as smiling yester-

The docket was called with the cus-tomary variations of fines and imprisonments, but the climax was reached when the case of Colonel Samuel M. Page and Captain Charles Bigger was called.

The military titles and chivalrous natures of these gentlemen caused every-body to believe that a terrible conflict had either taken place or was liable to occur, but when the delicate but beau-tiful little cane of Captain Bigger, broken and shattered, was displayed, it was evident that only a trifling difference had occurred. Mr. Harry M. Smith was the only witness called, and he testified that Captain Bigger approached Colonel Page and deliberately struck him with the fancy little cane. No such military gathering has been seen since the war, except at the late G. A. R. encampment or at the court-martial on the menitors. After the case was decided Justice John handed me the following lines, which are in keeping with his former poetic efforts:

"There's a flery captain named Bigger Who is quick as a wing on the trigger; He got in a rage with Colonel Sam Page,

And proceeded his face to disfigger." William Mann, Magruder Heath and Charles Lewis were all arrested as suspicious characters. They had queer games for the Fair, but the Justice required each of them to leave town on the

WILL WEAR A GOWN.

Rev. Dr. Kerr Will Soon Do So While in the Pulpit_His Reasons.

Rev. R. P. Kerr, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterlan church, who is one of the most popular and distinguished divines in the United States, has notified the members of his congregation that on and after next Sunday he will wear the Presbyterian gown while holding services. In his letter Dr. Kerr states the following in connection with the proposed innovation:

The session cordially and unanimously consented to it, as this black gown is the distinctive mark of the Presbyterian ministry throughout the world, and has been from the origin of our Church, and is now used by our ministers in Great Britain, Ireland and the continent of Europe generally, in Canada and Australia, and by an increasing number in the United States. It is being taken up in this country as an assertion of the dignity and solemnity of the office of the ambassador of Christ, a mark of historic Presbyterianism, and a protest against the common degradation of the pulpit of our time and country. Only eighteen members declared themselves as not in favor of wearing the gown, and yet they did not very strongly oppose it. The result was announced from the pulpit on Sunday evening.

The success of Monday night at the Mozart of Messrs, C. B. Jefferson, Klaw & Mozart of messis, C. B. deleson, haw a Erlanger's magnificent production of "The Soudan" was repeated last evening. The audience filled the spacious academy to the doors, and were enthusiastic in their applause when the stirring scenes in the story were shown and the interesting plot un-

There seems to be no limit to the drawing powers of this play, and there is no doubt but that its popularity is justly earned. There is no skimping in scenery, accessories or company, and although the mechanical effects and scenic changes are most complicated, scene after scene is sented with a smoothness of action and continuity of movement that are wonderful, when it is considered the mass of animate and inanimate material that must be han-ager of the Mozart, I was permitted to pass the evening behind the scenes and watch the operations of the twenty men who are required to handle the attraction.

confusion, but a word from the alert stage manager. Mr. Rose, and chaos turned to order, wings and flats, set pieces and drops came into their places like magic, and the eighteen scenes that appear in the play seemed more wonderful than when I saw them from the front.

The scenery is all on rollers. All the "grooves" that ordinarily support the scenes were taken out of the Mozart for this production, as the "Soudan" scenery is so arranged that it supports itself. A turn of the whole stage setting produces a new scene. scene.

Well-Merited Honor.

Thirty-five years ago was established the house of J. H. Dickerson & Co., and with all the experience born of these years of business, it was only natural that they should receive the first grand prize at the Exposition of 1892, a medal of honor, and $10 for the best exhibit of harness, collars, and the sand hardware. saddles and hardware.

This is but following in the footsteps of the exhibition of 1888, where they took first prize. The bright particular feature of the exhibit was a riding saddle, weight one and exhibit was a riding saddle, weight one and a half pounds, buggy harness, eight and a half pounds, aluminum mounted, and silver-mounted coach harness. Beautiful goods all these are, and not beautiful only, but durable and lasting, and one can imagine his horses stepping with quicker step and tossing their heads with pride at the glittering harness they find upon their arched backs from the house of Dickerson. Their name on an article is a hall mark of the quality of the goods and their reputation for fair dealing and integrity is so well known as to need only a word in passing.

The display was a most artistic one. A strong point this, for there is as much virtue in a harmonious grouping of things of beauty as in a concord of sweet sounds.

The Farmers' Alliance.

The Farmers' Alliance.

The Farmers' Alliance executive committee met at Ford's Hotel last evening.

Previous to the committee meeting a conference was held of the leading Alliance men in the State. Captain Edward R. Cocke, of Cumberland county, was chairman of the meeting. Major Mann Page, Mr. Julian M. Ruffin and about twenty other prominent Alliance men were present. The meeting was continued until nearly 11 o'clock.

Chairman Cooke was asked after the meeting regarding its import. He replied:
"There is nothing whatever of a political nature in our meeting, and not a single word of politics has been mentioned."

What was the nature of the business contemplated was asked him.

"We are trying to establish the Rochdale plan." he said, "which has proved so successful in Europe, and are trying to get all of the district exchanges united in establishing a central agency for the benefit of the Alliance of this State.

After the general meeting a session of the executive committee was held for the purpose of auditing bills and other routine work.

Big Day at Burkeville.

Burkeville, Va., Oct. 15.—Special.—Hon. George C. Cabell, Colonel Meade Has-kins and Major R. V. Poore addressed a large meeting of the citizens of Notto-way and adjoining counties to-day. It was an out-door meeting and barbecue under the shade of the trees. The speakers' stand was decked with flowers, and quite an unusual number of ladies graced the meeting with their presence. In the absence of J. D. Bradshaw, chairman of the Democratic Club at this place, the meeting was called to order by J. M. Morton, Commonwealth's attorney, who introduced the speakers in turn. came Colonel Cabell, who explained the genuine old-fashioned, bed-rock doctrines of true Democracy, and reminded his hearers of the evils through which they had passed, what they were now suffering and those they would have to experience in future should the Republi-cans be successful in retaining their power over the country. Speaking to the Alliance people he said: "Did the Democrats ever do you any harm? If so, how? They have had no opportunity. Let us reason together. You had just as well try to fly to Heaven without wings as try to elect Weaver. You complain of the laws, yet you want to vote in a way that will elect Harrison and continue laws." Continuing, he explained that there was little difference between the Democratic party and the doctrines of the Alliance, and no reason why Demo-crats should leave their party for minor faults, but rather that they should seek to correct evil within party lines. Democracy had always stood for low taxes, the will and wishes of the people, while the Republicans had always stood for high taxes, centralization and the extravagant expenditure of public money.

Discussing the McKinley bill, Colonel Cabell instanced manufactured articles that had advanced from 84 to 100 per cent. since its passage. Yet the men whose wages had been raised under its opera-tion were as few as the negroes who had received the forty acres of land and a mule. He had served in Congress for many years, knew the temper of Repub-licans there toward the South. They thought the Southern people a set of traitors and scamps. Colonel Cabell said he had served six years in Congress with Weaver, whom ne described as a most veritable He had heard Weaver speak forty bag. or sixty times, yet he never heard him say a good word for the Southern man. But he had heard him cast the vilest and almost vindictive epithets at the Confederate soldier that language could express, or the heart of hatred conceive. He had had to sit and listen to Weaver till he (Cabell) trembled with anger, because his hands were tied, and he could not call him to account for those vile, slanderous vituperations against the South.

Colonel Haskins followed Colonel Cabell. His speech was logical and full of convincing arguments and facts. Major Poore followed Colonel Haskins, and made a most impressive address.

O'Ferrall in Rappahannock.

Washington, Va., Oct. 17.—Special.— There was a large crowd here on the 14th to hear that favorite son of Democracy, Colorel C. T. O'Ferrall, who has so long and ably represented this district in Congress. He made a stirring address, held up the Force bill in all its dress, held up the Force bill in all its horrors to our people, and excoriated the Third party. The result of the speech was that six Cleveland clubs were organized in this county on the 15th. The Central Cleveland and Stevenson Club was organized at Washington with sixty members. J. J. Miller was elected president and C. H. Dean and H. M. Miller vice-presidents.

The Third party has very little following here, except from the Republicans.

The Republicons joined in cheering Cowan and Bev-Beverly, in his opening speech, did not mention Weaver's name, nor define the position of his party on a single issue. Fudge scored him unmercifully when he came to reply, and carried the day by Gloucester Point, Va., Oct. 17.-Special. Never before in the history of our local political campaigns was a canvass con-ducted with as little life as the present. The Democrats have made some effort to arouse enthusiasm, but have found no one to oppose them except a few Third partyites, who have almost given up in despair. Those who remain are nothing but Republicans in disguise.

The Republicans have been perfectly quiet all along, as if they took no in-terest in the approaching election. In fact, a number of them prominent in their party have declared that it was their purpose to support the Democratic nominee for Congress in this district.
